PARIS

The Harcourt Suite sits beneath the rooftops of Hôtel Fouquet's Paris and offers splendid views of the Arc de Triomphe from a prominent bull's-eye window. Designed by Jacques Garcia, this stunning 180 sqm (1940 sqft) suite combines the charm of a Parisian apartment with the prestige of Studio Harcourt, in tones of grey and gold accented by splashes of Harcourt red.

With its sloping ceilings, the charming bedroom invites you to wake up right next to the Arc de Triomphe, creating an intimate cocoon that includes a spacious white marble bathroom, walk-in dressing room and private gym. The connecting Junior Suite offers a total capacity of 4 guests within this outstanding Suite. The suite also features magnificent living rooms typical of Haussmannian design with oak parquet flooring, marble fireplaces and original bull's-eye windows. It boasts a large lounge, a dining room, an office and a spacious terrace overlooking the inner courtyard.

The decoration of the Suite is a reference to the iconic Harcourt Studio, which has been immortalising for 85 years the greatest figures in the world of arts, culture, and politics. The walls are adorned with Harcourt Studio portraits of celebrated actors and actresses that evoke the hotel's enduring connections with the world of cinema. Behind red velvet curtains, acting as a headboard is a captivating and timeless portrait of Gérard Philippe. During your stay, the Suite transforms into a real Harcourt photography studio, with a salon composed of a make-up room and fitting room, and a sitting room that turns into a pop-up photography space exactly like that of the famed Parisian studio. Light-filled and elegant, this sumptuous suite oozes character and celebrates the art of French living that both Harcourt Studio and Barrière are well known for.
